

If I can do this in a matter of months, you can do it too. Since I've been in Mary Kay, I have been awarding myself trips. I work hard for 4 – 5 months so I can go somewhere. Our First trip was to Washington D.C. to see the fireworks shooting out of The Lincoln Memorial. This trip was achieved as a Consultant. I had only been in Mary Kay for 6 months. Twelve months after that, my husband and I took a trip to Hawaii. It was just breath taking. I didn't want to come home. After having taken 2 trips, we had both agreed to put trips on hold for a while. After that agreement, I slowed down. I didn't have anything to work for. So my Jan and Feb months were atrocious.

It was March 09 and I was sitting in my work office (the Monday after Spring Break) when I came to the realization --I work for Fun trips. It was then I decided I needed a goal, a really big goal. So, I spoke to my husband and together we decided that we would take all our nieces and grandma to Disneyworld. So the race began. I again, developed my action plan and began to work. I broke it down, plane tickets, hotel, food, park tickets, meals, etc. So there I went, booking, booking, and more booking, coaching, and recruiting. With my commissions from March, I purchased 8 airline tickets. With the April commissions, I paid for the Resort. With the May commissions, I purchased the park tickets and our June was our meals and Spending CASH!!!!!! It was a pure joy, to see my nieces, son, grandma see Disneyworld. They had a magical time. My heart buzzed, tickled, and hopped when I'd see their little faces light up. That is my reason. To give to my loved ones what maybe is challenging for them to have. Isn't it great? We can decide one moment what we want and work towards it with the payoff being so magnificent. I will do it for that. My family knows that I laugh loud, work hard, and live it up!! Where else can I do that???

On a side note, my husband was discussing with me how we were going to get from the airport to the hotel. This is how it went.....

Supportive Husband: How are we going to get from the airport to the hotel? We are so many.

Super Star Dir.: Taxi.

Supportive Husband: A taxi for 8 people. I was thinking we could get a van to drive us to the hotel.

Super Star Dir.: Okay honey. Whatever you decide is fine with me.

Supportive Husband: The driver will be waiting for us holding up a sign as we exit the plane.

Super Star Dir.: What!. You mean like on T.V.?

Super Star Husband: Yes.

Super Star Dir.: You mean, if we want to, we can also be picked up by a limo?

Supportive Husband: Well, yes. Do you have any idea how much more that is going to cost us?

Super Star Dir.: No. Is there any reason why you couldn't find out for us?

Well, needless to say, we were all picked up in a stretch limo and driven to our Resort. The kids loved it.
