

Dream Corner

I am so excited after all the craziness of this year to take the kids to Aruba. Taylor got Scuba Certified and he is excited to Scuba dive with Dad and Big Brother Brandon. Amanda and I are going to snorkel while they dive. The newlyweds are invited, but they decided to stay home and work since they just went to Mexico on their honeymoon.

(Thanks to MOM and her Mary Kay $$.) Jennifer has 6 bookings on her books and is excited to get back to work and earn her car. Yippee Skippee!

Wow-what can I say. I am so thankful for this Mary Kay opportunity. After 15 years in Mary Kay, I still wake up excited to work my business and all the possibilities that are still available. I love what I do!

This has been the craziest great year of my life. Building our Dream home and Jenn's Wedding.

This is our dream home. It is over 8,000 square feet. We have 3 levels.

This is the home I used to dream of and thought it would never happen. Mary Kay has changed by thinking. I really believe you can have it all in Mary Kay, if you are willing to step out of your comfort zone and share the products and share the opportunity. It is that simple! Gary does very well, but it has been so fun to use my Mary Kay $$ to pay for the house plans, lights, knobs, and all the furnishings of our new home. For a year and a half I have been busying furniture for my dream home and putting it in storage.

The reason I started working my Mary Kay business was to get a couch for my front living room of my last house and now I am still working Mary Kay to furnish my dream home. My next goal is to pay for the yard.

You can have it all in Mary Kay!
